

Solitary Watch

Criminal Justice Issues and Prisoners' Rights

<https://solitarywatch.org/2015/07/05/seven-days-in-solitary-752015/>

Campaign and Advocacy

close

Search

close

close

by Aviva Stahl | July 5, 2015

The following roundup features noteworthy news, reports and opinions on solitary confinement from the past week that have not been covered in other Solitary Watch posts.

The Huffington Post published a terrifying glimpse into life in prison as a kid, including the use of solitary confinement.

The weeks New York Magazine cover story was devoted to examining Rikers Island, including the use of solitary confinement.

New Jersey Advocates for Immigrant Detainees, along with the NYU School of Law, released a report about the use of solitary confinement in the states immigration detention centers. The investigation, which was based on public records requests, found an unnecessarily harsh and unfair system that violates state and international standards. (See additional coverage here.)

A transgender woman has sued Snyder County, PA for placing her in solitary confinement for three days in 2013, allegedly without any reason or explanation. Its terrifying for somebody like me to realize that I can be treated, mistreated and abused in such a manner, and they do it with impunity, she said.

The Guardian published an op-ed by Amnesty International's Jasmine Heiss entitled Solitary confinement isn't punishment. Its torture.

David Sweat, who escaped from Clinton Correctional Facility in New York in June, was shot, captured, and subsequently transferred to Five Points Correctional Facility, another prison in the state, where he will likely be placed in indefinite solitary confinement.

Glen Ford, who had his death sentence vacated after nearly 30 years in prison, died less than 16 months after his release. Ford was incarcerated in Louisiana and spent the vast majority of his time on the inside in solitary confinement.

The U.S. 4th Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that a man placed in solitary confinement for twenty years after participating in a prison riot is entitled to sue for a due process violation, according to the ABA Journal.

Aviva Stahl is a Brooklyn-based reporter who writes about science/health at the intersection of mass incarceration, national security, and trans rights. She's written for the New York Times, Wired, BuzzFeed News, Solitary Watch, and other outlets. Find her @stahlidarity and at stahlidarity.com.

Accurate information and authentic storytelling can serve as powerful antidotes to ignorance and injustice. We have helped generate public awareness, mainstream media attention, and informed policymaking on what was once an invisible domestic human rights crisis.

Only with your support can we continue this groundbreaking work, shining light into the darkest corners of the U.S. criminal punishment system.

by Caitlin Konya

October 19, 2022

by Mirilla Zhu

October 12, 2022

by Caitlin Konya

October 5, 2022

Solitary Watch encourages comments and welcomes a range of ideas, opinions, debates, and respectful disagreement. We do not allow name-calling, bullying, cursing, or personal attacks of any kind. Any embedded links should be to information relevant to the conversation. Comments that violate these guidelines will be removed, and repeat offenders will be blocked. Thank you for your cooperation.

P.O. Box 11374
Washington, DC 20008

info@solitarywatch.org

Solitary Watch

Copyright 2022, Solitary Watch

Read about rights and permissions.

Solitary Watch News