We have been sharing information about Elwoods hearing for a potential new trial. You can read more about IJPC Program Managers experience sitting in on that trial and working with Elwood here.

IJPC's Summer 2022 Newsletter includes details about our upcoming Annual Gathering, research on global perspectives on human trafficking, information about Strategic Nonviolence for Peace Advocacy, a reflection on Day of Hope, and ways to support the immigrant community.

Over the last couple of months we have been working closely with members from the Immigrant Dignity Coalition here in Cincinnati to put together Conversations that Matter.

Help us amplify the stories waiting to be told, and providing a platform for more people to listen.

Ending the death penalty has been a key focus area of IJPC for almost 20 years. Learn more about proposed legislation to improve the current system, growing opposition to the death penalty, local partners, and how you can get involved.

All forms of human trafficking are a concern internationally as well as in our own communities of Cincinnati and Northern Kentucky. Each year an estimated 1,078 Ohio children become victims of sex trafficking and 3,016 more are at-risk.

IJPC fully believes that immigrants should be welcomed to the United States and our current immigration law does not support that. Learn about our Youth Educating Society (YES) Program that empowers young leaders and their allies to advocate for immigration reform.

Dialogue serves to promote civil discourse, stimulate critical thinking and create an environment where people of differing perspectives can feel safe and comfortable conversing and learning from one another. IJPC works to create peaceful and nonviolent communities.

The Intercommunity Justice and Peace Center educates and advocates for peace, challenges unjust local, national and global systems, and promotes the creation of a nonviolent society. IJPC is supported by faith-based organizations and individuals who work together to educate around justice issues, take collaborative action and do public witness. We address local, national and international concerns focusing on the death penalty, immigration, human trafficking and peace and nonviolence.
