Public Facing Advocacy Writing

press@ccrjustice.org

December 18, 2013, New York Today, attorneys at the Center for Constitutional Rights (CCR) confirmed that their client Djamel Ameziane, a man the U.S. forcibly repatriated to Algeria after nearly twelve years in Guantanamo without charge, was released from secret detention. CCR senior staff attorney Wells Dixon issued the following statement:

The Center for Constitutional Rights works with communities under threat to fight for justice and liberation through litigation, advocacy, and strategic communications. Since 1966, the Center for Constitutional Rights has taken on oppressive systems of power, including structural racism, gender oppression, economic inequity, and governmental overreach.
