National interfaith human rights organization to mark Torture Awareness Month throughout June

WASHINGTON, D.C. - June is Torture Awareness Month, and the National Religious Campaign Against Torture is providing local congregations and faith organizations resources and activities to honor survivors of torture, ensure that the truth about the U.S. torture program is made public, and begin the restoration of human dignity for all.

With the theme, Exposing the Truth of U.S. Torture: Restoring Human Dignity, and focusing on the call for the White House and Congress to make the Senate Intelligence Committees report on torture public, NRCAT has provided a toolkit to assist churches, mosques, synagogues, temples and other faith communities across the country in planning educational, advocacy and worship events to commemorate Torture Awareness Month. A full list of the largest events, all open to media, is below.

In conjunction with Torture Awareness Month activities, NRCAT launched a petition to President Obama, stating, On April 3, 2014 a bipartisan majority of the Senate Intelligence Committee voted to release its report on post-9/11 CIA torture. Since then, reports indicate that the CIA has attempted to obstruct and delay its release. Now it is time for the truth to be revealed. No more obstruction, no more delays. Mr. President, make the report public now.

Explaining why the faith community is focusing on the release of the Senate torture report, which was adopted by the Senate Intelligence Committee in December 2012 and sent to the White House for declassification in April of this year, Rev. Ron Stief, NRCAT's executive director said, The evidence is irrefutable the United States, without a doubt, tortured. Our nation, once regarded as a defender of human rights, broke national and international law and long-held moral codes. At no time in the eight-year history of NRCAT has the role of the faith community been more important than it is now. Our years of organizing educational events, engaging in advocacy, holding worship and prayer services, and shaping the moral understanding of torture through op-eds and letters to the editor have paid off. We now have the factual basis to push the nation to act.

In partnership with The Constitution Project, KARAMAH: Muslim Women Lawyers for Human Rights, and dozens of local secular and faith-based organizations, NRCAT is co-sponsoring five events across the U.S. this month focusing on generating awareness of The Constitution Projects Detainee Treatment Report, produced last year, and human rights advocacy organizations ongoing push for the White House to make public the Senate Intelligence Committees torture report, described here by Stief. Additionally, congregations and faith groups have planned more than 75 screenings of NRCAT's film No Doubt, It Was Torture, part of 150 educational and/or public witness events nationwide.

On June 3, the first of these five events was held in Seattle. More than 100 people gathered at University Temple United Methodist Church to hear Brig. General David R. Irvine (Ret.) speak on Exposing the Truth of U.S. Torture: Restoring Human Dignity and the Rule of Law. Irvine is a retired Army Reserve strategic intelligence officer, who taught prisoner interrogation and military law for 18 years. He is a member of The Constitution Projects Task Force on Detainee Treatment, which spent over two years compiling a 600-page report on U.S. held detainees at Guantanamo Bay, Afghanistan, Iraq and CIA black sites. Other panelists in Seattle included the Rev. Rich Lang, Pastor of University Temple United Methodist Church, a consistent voice for global and local justice; Professor Beth Rivin, a pediatrician, Director of University of Washington's Global Health and Justice Project; and Scott Roehm, Senior Counsel, Rule of Law Program, The Constitution Project.
