Public Facing Advocacy Writing

(New York, NY) Today, the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) inspector general released a new report on the federal policies that resulted in separating migrant children from their families. Childrens Rights Executive Director, Sandy Santana, released the following statement:

It is shocking that the Trump Administration enacted this policy with no attempt to develop the infrastructure and processes that could track and eventually reunite these children. We are not talking about commodities. These are kids, and we owe these families and the American public the full and accurate count of the number of separated children and their whereabouts today. Even amidst the government shutdown, Congress must make getting concrete answers an absolute and urgent priority.
