Calling All

Authoritarianism Refugee Protection

To counter this trend, we are using our expertise and influence in government to uncover abuses, hold institutions accountable, and make sure people across continents and circumstances can live without fear of oppression.

With a network of human and civil rights defenders, veterans, and advocates, we are challenging this movement using our expertise in research, policy, law, technology, and national security to uncover the movement, expose its tactics, and uphold human rights.

We are committed to righting human wrongs by advocating for better policies, representing victims in the court of law, and conducting eye-opening research.

Our team and allies are building technological solutions to uncover and address human rights abuses, shift the balance of power, and hold violators accountable.
