Children in foster care and others dependent on public child welfare systems have important legal rights under the United States Constitution and federal and state law, including:

Since 1995, we have been fighting to protect the rights of abused, neglected, and foster/adopted youth winning landmark victories and bringing about sweeping improvements in the lives of children in more than a dozen states across the nation.

Childrens Rights brings class-action lawsuits on behalf of children in child welfare systems. We do not provide direct legal representation or advise on individual matters. If you are looking for legal counsel to represent or advise you, please contact your local bar association, legal aid/legal services agency, or the Court for a referral for legal counsel.

Every day, children are harmed by Americas broken child welfare, juvenile justice, education, and healthcare systems. Through relentless strategic advocacy and legal action, we hold governments accountable for keeping kids safe and healthy. Childrens Rights has made a lasting impact, protecting hundreds of thousands of vulnerable children and we are poised to help millions more. They are depending on us and you.
