Solitary Watch

Criminal Justice Issues and Prisoners' Rights

https://solitarywatch.org/2013/05/19/seven-days-in-solitary-51813/

Campaign and Advocacy

close

Search

close

close

by Jean Casella and James Ridgeway | May 19, 2013

The following roundup features noteworthy news, reports and opinions on solitary confinement from the past week that have not been covered in other Solitary Watch posts.

Coverage of Guantanamo was heavy again throughout the past week as the hunger strike reached its 100th day. An estimated 102of the 166 detainee are refusing food, andsome 30 arebeing subjected to force-feeding in violation of international human rights standards.

New York City CouncilMember Daniel Dromm continues his crusade to end torture in New York withan op-ed in the Queens Times- Ledger.

A (somewhat overlysanguine) CBS News piece reported on the federal governments internal plan to review its use of solitary confinement, and noted reductions that have taken place thus far in a handful of states.

Mashable reports that hacker Andrew Weev Auernheimer has been placed in solitary confinement in his minimum security federal prison to prevent him tweeting and posting phone calls to his soundcloud.

As a guest column in the Orlando Sun-Sentinal notes, the Youth in Solitary Confinement Reduction Act failed to make progress in the current legislative session. Its sponsor has vowed to reintroduce it in the next session, as awareness of children held in solitary grows in Florida and around the country.

An op-ed and letter to the editor in the Albany Times-Union argue that solitary confinementas practiced in New York is both brutal and futile. The pieces respond to an article in the Times Union on the effects of solitary, and a subsequent op-ed by the local corrections officers union supporting the practice.

The New York Times reports that after years of litigation and negotiation, a federal judge has approved a settlement meant to guarantee alternatives to segregation for mentally ill inmates in Massachusetts prisons.

James Ridgeway (1936-2021) was the founder and co-director of Solitary Watch. An investigative journalist for over 60 years, he served as Washington Correspondent for the Village Voice and Mother Jones, reporting domestically on subjects ranging from electoral politics to corporate malfeasance to the rise of the racist far-right, and abroad from Central America, Northern Ireland, Eastern Europe, Haiti, and the former Yugoslavia. Earlier, he wrote for The New Republic and Ramparts, and his work appeared in dozens of other publications. He was the co-director of two films and author of 20 books, including a forthcoming posthumous edition of his groundbreaking 1991 work on the far right, Blood in the Face. Jean Casella is the director of Solitary Watch. She has also published work in The Guardian, The Nation, and Mother Jones, and is co-editor of the book Hell Is a Very Small Place: Voices from Solitary Confinement. She has received a Soros Justice Media Fellowship and an Alicia Patterson Fellowship. She tweets @solitarywatch.

Accurate information and authentic storytelling can serve as powerful antidotes to ignorance and injustice. We have helped generate public awareness, mainstream media attention, and informed policymaking on what was once an invisible domestic human rights crisis.

Only with your support can we continue this groundbreaking work, shining light into the darkest corners of the U.S. criminal punishment system.

by Caitlin Konya

October 19, 2022

by Mirilla Zhu

October 12, 2022

by Caitlin Konya

October 5, 2022

Solitary Watch encourages comments and welcomes a range of ideas, opinions, debates, and respectful disagreement. We do not allow name-calling, bullying, cursing, or personal attacks of any kind. Any embedded links should be to information relevant to the conversation. Comments that violate these guidelines will be removed, and repeat offenders will be blocked. Thank you for your cooperation.

Today Pres. Obama will be addressing the issue of closing Guantanamo, hope to hear comments from you all.

they force feed at ADX

P.O. Box 11374 Washington, DC 20008

info@solitarywatch.org

Solitary Watch

Copyright 2022, Solitary Watch

Read about rights and permissions.

Solitary Watch News